

STARTYPES ASTROLOGY ON YouTube
July 9, 2011

By Michael Erlewine (Michael@Erlewine.net)

It is not without some trepidation that I venture into trying to communicate some of my astrological experience through "YouTube" videos. I very much want your feedback so feel free to send me personal Facebook messages (if it is too harsh for public) or comment here.

This is a first attempt. I don't expect many of you to have time and interest, but there may be some of you who can enjoy these. And please forgive my squeaky voice. In fact I can tell what to me is a very funny story about that:

Back in the early 1970s in Ann Arbor I had a daily radio show called "Star Time" where I spoke about the current astrological weather in the heavens above. I would prerecord them on tape and the radio station would play these throughout the week. And I was not above listening in now and then just to hear my own voice.

Well, one day I did just that. I tuned into "Star Time," but I was in for a shock. They had replaced me with another astrologer. Instead of my rather high-pitched voice on the air, instead out came the deep, resonant, and obviously very kind and patient voice of someone else. To make matters worse, the Astrologer they chose to replace me knew his stuff. His every word was sharp and to the point, and in a flash I realized that he knew at least as much about astrology as did I.

I was devastated to say the least.

After I got over my initial shock I just had to call the radio station and find out who it was that replaced me. To my surprise what I found is that the station had mistakenly played my own tape at a slower speed which explained the slow resonant voice... and also how sharp this new guy was. It was me, just in another personality. It taught me a valuable lesson. You can't judge a book by its cover.

Please do check this video out and send some feedback. Remember this is just a first try, so be kind. Here is the link to the video:

TWO NEW STARTYPES VIDEOS
July 12, 2011

I put together two more videos on StarTypes, one of which would be worth any astrologer checking out. That is the one called:

"The Opportunity of a Lifetime"

The other is about the techniques/astronomy behind StarTypes and should interest the more technical among you. It is called "The Astronomy of StarTypes" and is found here:

STAR TYPES VIDEO PART 2

"Just Two Kinds of People in the World."

July 10, 2011

These StarTypes videos are just for a few of you. Don't worry, I am not going to stop posting my regular stuff. Like many of you, I wear a number of hats.

StarTypes is (IMO) very important to anyone interested in relationships and trying to figure out how you might get along with friends, lovers, and co-workers, so bear with me.

Those of you not interested, just ignore these. Those interested, watch them, and ask questions if you have any.

This video introduces the two main relationship StarTypes, the roles that every relationship eventually assumes.

VIDEO: A BRIEF HISTORY OF STAR TYPES

Here is a shorter almost extemporaneous narrative. Let me know if this is better and...louder.
