

PHOTO FROM YESTERYEAR (2010)

January 9, 2011

By Michael Erlewine (Michael@Erlewine.net)

Not more kitchen flowers. I'm now digging into photos from last year and starting to work through them. I will make one or more free photo albums of shots like this one and let you know where you can download or view them online. Also, the photo books will be much larger so that you can better see the subject matter.

It was zero out when I got up this morning, so that is cold. I'm not going outside, so I'm sorting through about 50,000 nature photos (mostly) from last year.

Hope you are all well and warm. If you are in Florida or California I don't want to hear about it. My daughter May is in Ethiopia (where it is warm) helping to raise money for schools. They have nothing over there. She is singing for the kids and found out that the kids there just love Michael Jackson, so she sang them a couple of Michael Jackson songs and they went crazy... started putting on sunglasses and dancing around.

Ok, back to work here on a Sunday afternoon.

Michael

