

WEEKEND EVENT - Not Just Rain Showers Coming
May 19, 2011

By Michael Erlewine (Michael@Erlewine.net)

More rain coming today, but also a bridal shower for my daughter May this weekend at our home. How rare is that?

It will be a busy time with 30 or so lovely ladies converging here, carrying on, and having fun. I never knew that wedding planning was a detailed project - infinite! We boys have been told to get scarce for the day.

May's fiancé Seth Bernard, my son Michael Andrew, and myself will be hanging out on our own and foraging for things to do. Where will we go? What we will do? Time will tell.

Photo: The "Wood Poppy" or "Lesser Celandine" (Chelidonium majus) is delicate, always a pale green, and hard to do justice to. The flowers, leaves, and all parts are fascinating
